Student Activity Fee Committee Division of Student Affairs Georgia State University Student Center East – Suite 303 Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Ms. Barnes, Ms. Reid Stroud, and the Student Activity Fee Committee:

On behalf of the Student Bar Association (SBA) and the 29 College of Law student organizations that rely on funding through the SBA, the SBA is appealing the College of Law student fee allocation of $63,369 for the 2017-2018 fiscal year.

The Georgia State College of Law is a thriving community of 670 diverse students representing a multitude of different states and countries. Each semester, College of Law student organizations facilitate countless lunch and dinner presentations on a wide variety of topics related to the law and human interest. These presentations enrich the entire student body, faculty, and staff of the College of Law, as they are open to the entire community. Additionally, they foster diversity and promote learning about different cultures, political parties, religions, and other areas of interest, all while serving to benefit the entire College of Law as a whole. Most of these organizations's sole source of funding is through the student fee allotment.

The SBA is tasked with organizing school-wide events and allocating the remaining funds between 29 College of Law student organizations, including Black Law Students Association, Environmental Law Society, Muslim Law Student Association, OUTlaw (LGBT Law Students Association), and Public Interest Law Association. The recent reductions and current allocation of $63,369 significantly hinder the ability of these organizations to provide meaningful and consistent programming due to the inherent cost of such events. Due to the College of Law's unique and valuable part-time program, event costs often double, as student organizations make an effort to put each event on at lunch and at dinner so as to benefit both the full-time and part-time students. Additionally, the College of Law's Law Week dedicates an entire week to promoting public service, community involvement, and encompasses a school-wide community service project. All Georgia State students, faculty, alumni, the Atlanta legal community, and stakeholders are involved and benefit from this large-scale endeavor. The SBA this year instituted austerity measures in order to provide all student organizations an additional $150 for the Spring Semester. This allotment is specifically designed to aid organizations to provide quality presentations for this year's Law Week.
